WOMAN CHARGES SWINDLE

Antioch Lady Says Spectacle Men Got the Best of Her

DESIRES TO WARN OTHERS

Asserts That Many Were Bumped but will not Admit it for Fear of Being Laughed At

The following letter which was written by an Antioch woman and sent to the Waukegan Sun for publication sounds a warning to the residents of this vicinity and is therefore copied in part by The News with the hope that it may save others from being bumped.

Editor Waukegan Sun:
Sir.—Last week two fellows came here to my home claiming to come from and representing a college for treatment of the eyes and selling glasses. They were very smooth talking, as all such fellows are, and they "looked me in," or at least I felt that way, as they said my eyes needed treatment, and they were to send me medicine for that and I was to receive it on Monday last. Well it hasn't come yet and never will, I believe.

They give a guarantee, one promising to do this and so, but come to look at it after they were gone, it is not dated nor has it any street number on it, although they claim to have branch houses in Minneapolis, St. Paul, Denver, St. Louis, Kansas City and others.

I will admit I was a fool and for that reason I would like to help protect others. One reason I listened to them was because they had sold glasses to others here in town, business men, and I thought if they considered them all right, I might.

They left me some glasses to use until they had others ground and got my eyes prepared for what I was to have for permanent use, and it was while one was putting the lenses into my frames that the other made out the receipt and papers, so I could not see to read it.

As soon as they were gone I looked and it struck me then that they were fakers, so I telephoned to others but they did not own up.

The people of Lake and surrounding counties are warned not to do business with two fellows going around the country testing eyes and fitting glasses. One claims to be a graduate from a college where he learned and got a diploma for that work, while the other is the doctor who is the one to prescribe for treatment and operate after the first has found out the trouble. One is tall and dark a fast talker, while the doctor is short and lighter, says little but takes the cash.

One of their victims.

VIRGINIA MOOR HEADS COLONY

Saturday afternoon Miss Virginia Moore was made president and treasurer of the Spirit Fruit colony at Wooster Lake, near Ingleside, in a way succeeding Jacob Beihart, and took charge at once. E. F. Jockwell, Idaho mining man and manager of the colony's mining interests was made secretary.

"If we weep he would only laugh" said colonists at the Beihart funeral so there were no tears and no services and the members went about their usual duties at once after the body was lowered into the "narrow house."

WYNN ROAD NEAR INCORPORATION

Incorporation papers for the proposed Waukegan, Rockford, and Elgin Electric Railroad company will be filed within the next few days and data for the making of the papers are now being arranged in a Waukegan attorney's office.

This is the proposed Wynn road, and the filing of incorporation papers indicates that the first step toward actual realization has been made.

Many inquiries have been made in regard to the price of the stock and when it will be marketed and the prospects are that Mr. Wynn will have no difficulty in disposing of enough stock to raise the necessary capital.

BROPHY STOCK FARM SOLD

One of the biggest transfers made in Lake County in years was that filed Monday when the Truman Brophy stock farm at Fox Lake was sold for $57,000.

The transfer shows that Brophy and wife sold it to the following persons, each getting the proportionate interest mentioned: Nina W. Winston, of Chicago, 4-10 of tract, Carrie W. Guines, Burlington, Ky. 1-7-20; Mary and Sarah Hughes of Edgar county, Ill. 7-20.

There are 380 acres and the property is located in sections 11, 12 and 14, Grant township.

The Brophy stock farm has long been one of the finest in Lake county and the owner is well known throughout the county.

MRS. O'NEIL DIED LAST SATURDAY

On Saturday evening at her home near Trevor occurred the death of Mrs. Kate O'Neil, which resulted from the general break down due to advancing age. The deceased was about seventy-five years of age.

Mrs. O'Neil was the widow of the late Cornelius O'Neil and was one of the pioneer women of the town of Salem. She had been a resident of the town of Salem for more than fifty years and was widely known and highly respected in that part of the county.

She leaves to mourn her loss, four children, Frank of Cincinnati, and Rose, Ellen and Kate, of this vicinity, besides many other relatives and friends. The family has the sympathy of the community in their bereavement.

ACCIDENTALLY SHOOTS COUSIN WITH REVOLVER

After she had been shot above the heart by her eighteen year old cousin, John Rasmussen, and perhaps fatally wounded, Lillian Christianson, thirteen years old, refused to tell how the shooting occurred. The boy said it was accidental.

The girl is a daughter of Marius Christianson, a prosperous farmer who lives near Winthrop Harbor. She and her cousin were alone in her parents' residence at the time of the shooting.

Young Rasmussen was not arrested, but he said he would surrender himself at any time if the police wanted him. The girl was taken to the Kenosha hospital.

Undaunted by Blindness.

Prof. E. D. Campbell, director of the chemical laboratories in the University of Michigan, lost his sight 18 years ago through an accident. In spite of his affliction he has taken a high place in education and has made original researches of much value, especially in the chemistry of iron and cement.

To Retain Friendship.

Let this be established as a primary law concerning friendship, that we expect from our friends only what is honorable and for our friends sake do what is honorable.—Cicero.

TO PUT ROAD ON BASIS

Bond Holders of Frost Line to Proceed With Forfeiture Proceedings

PLAN APPROVED BY FROST

Looks as Though the Property Would Pay in Five Years, Says Attorney for the Bond Holders

Definite steps towards an era of prosperity for the Chicago and Milwaukee electric lines were taken Monday at a meeting in which holders of nearly two-thirds of all outstanding bonds were represented.

It was decided to place the road on a substantial basis and go ahead with its operation in the expectation that it will develop into a paying proposition.

John V. Clarke, president of the Liberator Banking company of Chicago, was elected chairman of the bond holders' committee. Other members are Charles B. Shedd of Chicago and George A. Somerville, Miller Lash and Robert Cassels of Toronto, Canada.

On advice of Attorney Jacob Newman, in whose office the meeting was held, it was decided to proceed with foreclosure actions which were begun in Chicago and Milwaukee, following the road's failure to meet the interest on its bonds. It is estimated that these proceedings will require three months, at the end of which time the company will be thoroughly reorganized.

"It looks as if the property would pay out within five years," said Attorney Newman. "I wish I had some of the bonds. We now have represented $6,408,000 of the bonds, although we need only $5,000,000. The road will be a success because of the rapidly increasing population along its route and because of its intrinsically desirable features."

A. C. Frost, projector of the road, also approved the plan.

"The road now has an entrance to Milwaukee," he said. "It's facilities in connection with the Northwestern elevated road will be much improved this spring, and business should be good."

Ravina Park and similar properties are entirely distinct from the road. They are controlled by A. C. Frost & Co., a partnership which is in a receiver's hands. The plan of selling tickets to Ravina to guarantee the season's expenses proved all right last year, and we have hopes for even larger business this summer."

GIRL DEFIED A WHOLE ARMY.

Feminine Toll-Gate Keeper Paid by Government.

It is related that the army, headed by Sheridan and his staff, left Winchester by the valley pike early in the morning, the column moving toward Stephens City. Just as day was breaking the staff reached the toll-gate and was much discomfited to find the toll-pole down and guarded by a young and beautiful girl, Charlotte Hillman, famed locally for her girlish charms.

Even the war-hardened Sheridan seems not to have been proof against the persuasion of a pair of black eyes and a pretty face, and when toll was demanded, straightway produced the title, setting an example that was followed by his staff.

"But," said Sheridan, as he passed through the gate, "I cannot vouch for my army."

When the common soldiery came the girl again lowered the toll-bar and demanded toll. This was met by jeers from the soldiers, whereupon she wisely raised the guard. All day the dazed troopers passed through and the daisy-chapered Hillman stood at her post. For every ten soldiers who passed the gate she cut a notch in the toll-pole. Early next day the Blue Ridge with the remnants of his disorganized army, in the Valley of Virginia, Lee, beaten back by Grant's overwhelming numbers, gave up the fight; in the southeast Joe Johnston fired the last baroque shots, and peace came again over the north and south. Then, when relations with Washington had been re-established and the administration's policy was one of magnanimity, Charlotte Hillman counted the notches in the toll-pole and sent her bill to Washington. And the bill was paid.—Metropolitan Magazine.

Groundless Accusation.

Kloesman—"Well of all things. The idea of his accusing me of making a blo out of the whole cloth." Poppery—"Yes, the idea!" Kloesman—"Ridiculous, isn't it?" Poppery—"Oh, very. Evidently he doesn't know how economical you are."

STAMPS ON CHRISTMAS PACKAGES

Beach Road Tent Colony to Issue 200,000 One Cent Stamps for Shoppers

WILL BE SPECIAL DESIGN

Shoppers Will Buy Stamps at Stores and Affix Them to Yule Packages to Aid in Fight on White Plague

Dr. Watterson, head of the Beach Road Tuberculosis Colony, is now making plans to bring before the board of directors a plan to place on sale in Waukegan the new issue of Red Cross stamps which Christmas shoppers are expected to buy and affix to their Christmas packages, the proceeds to go to the aid of tuberculosis patients and to the prevention and cure of the disease.

Dr. Watterson is now visiting at his home in Kankakee, Ill., but will return the first of the week when the directors will formally receive his scheme to handle the stamps and probably vote favorably upon it. Plans for the Waukegan colony thus far made known are for a special issue of the tuberculosis benefit stamps, independent of the national stamp and contrived especially for local benefit.

The design will be the familiar red cross of the National Tuberculosis Association surrounded by a wreath of holly or some other holiday symbol and the first issue will probably be about 200,000 one cent stamps.

According to present arrangements the stamps will be placed on sale at all stores where Christmas shopping is heavy, department stores and candy and book and novelty stores receiving the greater part.

Steps will be taken immediately to have the stamps printed and put into circulation and holiday shoppers, by buying and affixing the stamps to their packages, are expected materially to aid in the fight against tuberculosis, which claims one life a week in Lake county.

There is no question about the need of a fund to fight this dread white plague and the Christmas stamp idea suggested by the Red Cross society is regarded as the pleasantest way of getting money, striking people as it does when they are imbued with the holiday spirit and are sympathetic with their less fortunate fellows.

CURIOUS PAPUAN LAWS.

Tribe Where Sisters' Children Inherit a Man's Property.

A Methodist missionary in British New Guinea—now known as Papua—Rev. W. E. Brownlow, has added to the world's knowledge of the curious and little known races of the great north Pacific island by the discovery and partial taming of a new tribe.

The race in question consists of about 20,000 blacks, living at a place called Dobu. The customs of the race are most curious.

The immigration policy is more drastic than that of "White Australia," for all strangers have either to become full members of the tribe or be eaten. When dealing with Mr. Brownlow, however, the difficulty was got over by making him a father of the tribe.

Each tribe and each family had their own land, and no portion is allowed to go out of their possession except as a loan for a season's crop. The men marry out of their own tribe and on their death their land becomes the property of their sisters' children.

Women have great influence in the affairs of the tribe, and their duties are quite distinct from those of the men. The men clear the bush and dig the ground, then the women prepare it and plant yams, the crop being theirs. If a man wants any yams he has to ask for them. The banana patch, however, is his own property. Wives are obtained by purchase. If a man pays well for his wife he can thrash her occasionally, but she could leave him if she did not like it, and go back to her own village.

Their heaven is a place where the healthy, strong and good-looking go. All the others go to hell.—London Chronicle.

And That's the Truth.

One of the most inconsequential idiosyncrasies on earth is the one who weighs about 110 pounds, and is always crowing about how he weighs a No. 5 shoe to someone who weighs 200.

A Word from Josh Wise.

"You are in luck if you can say: 'What shall I eat to-day?' The very rich, often, and the very poor, always say: 'What can I eat to-day?'"

HEINSTORE TO BE ENLARGED

Growth of Business Due to Right Methods Cause of the Step

The Alex Hein Co. of Waukegan, will, after January first, enlarge their store by adding twenty-nine feet to the rear of the building.

This will add immensely to the floor space of the building and will make this store one of the largest and most commodious to be found anywhere between Chicago and Milwaukee. The shoe department which has proven such a success will also be greatly enlarged.

The volume of business transacted by this concern since its organization six months ago has increased to such magnitude that for some time the company has been handicapped for lack of space in which to display their stock, hence the urgent necessity for this enlargement.

Much credit is due this concern for the phenomenally rapid growth of their business and for the ever increasing patronage that they are enjoying. Such increase must be due to the honorable methods employed by this concern who have at all times manifested a disposition to treat their patrons in courteous and upright manner.

FRED GALIGER BECOMES BENEDICT

Nov. 26, at the residence of the bride's parents occurred the marriage of Miss Katherine Dolen to Frederick Galiger, Rev. William W. Love rector of Christ church, officiating. The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Dolen of 305 Hickory street, and is a member of Christ church choir. Mr. Galiger is a representative of one of the oldest families of the county, being a son of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Galiger of Lake Villa.

Miss Ethel Simmons played the Lohengrin wedding march, while the bride dressed in white and carrying white carnations, came down the stairway, and entered the stairway on the arm of her father, where she was met by the groom, and taking their places, Rev. Love read the Episcopal marriage service. Mr. Yutz of Marshalltown, Iowa, acted as best man and Mrs. Y. A. Galiger as matron of honor.

Mr. Galiger is a student of Kimberlin School of Evangelists, at Kimberlin Heights, Pa., where he will return in a few days. Mrs. Galiger will remain with her parents until her husband's ordination to the ministry.

The groom is well known in this vicinity having spent the most of his life at Monaville where he has many friends who join in extending congratulations to the happy couple.

NOTICE TO TIMBER THIEVES

Wood having been taken of my eighty acres without my permission, in Salem, Kenosha County, and rented from me by Charles Wilton, and also from my forty acres rented by Michael Hoyer. Notice is hereby given that this wood was stolen and I shall prosecute and hold liable the parties having taken the same. Future timber thieves are hereby also warned that they will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law. Emilie R. Wills, 676 Bedford Avenue, Brooklyn, New York City. 14-3

SPEAKER SHIFTED HIS QUID.

This was Done So That No Partiality Could Be Shown.

Doctor Hildreth, in his "Memoirs of the Early Settlers of Ohio," devotes a chapter to Abraham Whipple of Rhode Island. He was born in 1733, and was one of the first to take a hand in the revolutionary war. In 1786 he was elected a representative to the legislature from the town of Cranston.

The advocates of the paper-money system were then in power, and had chosen Othniel Gorton, a clumsy old nian, for speaker.

Gorton was in the habit of keeping a large quid of tobacco in one side of his mouth, which pressed out one of his cheeks. Most of the debates were on the opposite side of the hall from that on which Commodore Whipple sat, and the speaker's face was commonly turned that way.

Once in the course of the debate Whipple had cogitated a speech, which he waited for an opportunity to deliver. At last, out of patience, he rose and called, "Mr. Speaker!" The speaker, whose face was turned the other way, did not hear him. He raised his voice to its utmost, "Mr. Speaker!"

Gorton started, and turning to the commodore, said, "I hear you." Thereupon Whipple began: "I wish, Mr. Speaker, you would shift your quid of tobacco from your starboard to your larboard jaw, that it might give your head a cant this way, so that you could sometimes hear something from this side of the house." Then he went on with his speech.

HOLD UP TRIES TO MURDER

LIVED NEAR LIBERTYVILLE

Pulls Trigger When Farmer Resists Demand for Thirty-Five Dollars But Cartridge Fails to Explode

James Buckley, a farm hand employed by John Meuman, a wealthy farmer, who resides with his family two and a half miles north of Libertyville, Thanksgiving night, according to Mr. Meuman, poked a gun under his employers nose and demanded that he turn over to him the sum of thirty-five dollars which he had in his hand at the time.

Meuman resisted. Buckley, according to Meuman pulled the trigger of the thirty-two caliber revolver which he held pointed at his employers heart, but the cartridge failed to explode. Meuman then made himself scarce. Buckley pulled the trigger again. The third time he pulled the trigger the cartridge exploded, sending the bullet through the casing of the barn door and about six inches from Meuman's head. Meuman hastened into the house and later armed with a shot gun made a trip to Libertyville where he swore out a warrant for the arrest of Buckley.

Deputy Sheriff Limberry accompanied by Constable Brixen hastened to the scene of the disaster but her bird had flown. The police and constable drag net of the country was stretched out but as yet no arrests have been made.

Meuman had returned to his home from Libertyville about eight o'clock Thanksgiving evening and as he entered the barn to attend to his chores he was confronted by Buckley.

Buckley, according to Meuman, asked that he pay him some money which he had coming to him. His wages amounted to but two dollars and a half. Meuman offered to pay him but neither had the necessary change. Meuman then offered to pay Buckley a half dollar, the only change he had, but this offer was refused.

As Meuman attempted to restore the wad of bills which he had in his hand at the time, Buckley turned on him with the drawn revolver and demanded that he shell out. Meuman was on the point of doing so when the trigger failed to explode the cartridge. Thinking that the gun was not loaded Meuman then took to his heels and made good his escape.

Neighbors residing near the scene of the attempted holdup claim that a hard feeling had existed between the two men for some time.

Later it was discovered that a child's bunk, which had been left on a dresser in the main bed room of the house, had been robbed. Whether Buckley raided the home before leaving is a question the police are trying to solve. Those acquainted with both parties are of the opinion that Buckley left for Chicago soon after the trouble arose.

BY WHEELBARROW IN CHINA.

Two Passengers Go 20 Miles a Day for Ten Cents Each.

Probably more freight and more passengers are transported in China by the wheelbarrow than by any other land method. The wheelbarrow used in China differs from that used in America in the fact that the wheel is set in the center and thus supports practically the entire load, while the handles are supported in part by a strap or rope over the shoulders of the man who operates it.

As a result the coolie in China will transport nearly half a ton on his wheel. Wheelbarrows are much used in the country where the roads are but little developed, and I have heard that passengers sometimes make the entire trip from Shanghai to Peking, a distance of 600 miles, by barrow.

A two-passenger barrow will make about 20 miles a day, and the coolie is content with a pay of about 20 cents a day, or an average of about half a cent a mile for each passenger.

On the level, well-kept streets of the foreign quarters of such cities as Hongkong, Shanghai and Peking the wheelbarrow coolie will struggle along with a load of six or even eight people.—Washington Herald.

Genealogical Trees.

I make little account of genealogical trees. Mere family never made a man great. Thought and deed, not pedigree, are the passports to enduring fame.—Gen. Skobeloff.

Dime Novels in Spain.
Benjamin H. Ridgely, American consul-general in Barcelona, reports that French translations of the old style American dime novels have been selling well at the newspaper kiosks in that Catalana city. The books sell from 4.1 to six cents American a copy, says the New York Sun.
The consul-general was asked recently by American publishers about the chances by Spanish editions of everything in the dime novel series. His investigations brought him to the conclusion that there wouldn't be much outlook for profit, because the French editions have taken the edge off the popular demand. With the exception of Barcelona and Madrid the reading public is not large.
The best profits from this class of literature are earned in South and Central America.

Inventor of Envelopes.
It is somewhat curious that such a simple contrivance as the envelope should be a comparatively modern invention.
As a matter of fact, it is just 100 years since a paper manufacturer of Brighton, named Breves, invented envelopes for letters in their present form. Even then it was some considerable time before their use became all general, not, in fact, until somewhere about the year 1850.
Before this date (as many who are living now will remember) a letter, written only on one side, was folded in two, then in three, sealed with a wafer or sealing wax, and addressed on one of the blank sides.

Has Two Signatures.
There is one New York business man who is reasonably proof against the forger, as he has two signatures, and the forger must first get hold of one of his bank checks to get any action. Seeing the signature on a letter or hotel register would do the forger no good. The bank would not recognize it.
"I don't particularly fear the forger," the business man admitted. "But my two signatures make me feel safer, just the same. I am surprised that everybody doesn't hit on the same plan. It's very easy after you get the knack of signing your name two separate and distinct ways."

The Retort Sentimental.
The tall and handsome policeman had assisted the timid and shrinking lady across the street.
"I really don't know what we women would do without you policemen," she said gratefully as he landed her unscathed on the far side.
"Thank you, ma'am," he responded touching his cap. "And I don't know what us policemen would do if it wasn't for the women," he added as he waited for another one to come along and require his services.

Luminous Birds.
Owls do not appear to be the only luminous birds. The authors of "The Water Birds of North America" allude to the phosphorescent plumage of the great blue heron. The breast feathers of this species, it appears, are furnished with a downy, light emitting substance. The bird itself is known as the "bird lantern." It is suggested that the luminosity may be of service to the bird both by attracting the fish and enabling it to see them.

A Timely Joke.
"I should think a clockmaker's business was a very uncertain one."
"Why so?"
"Because it is a business that runs on tick, and one engaged in it is always sure of a strike coming, with the daily prospect of a windup."

Stevenson's Warning.
In an article on Robert Louis Stevenson's horror of the opium habit Rev. W. E. Clarke, in the chronicle of the London Missionary society, gives a letter which the novelist sent when on the island to the native king of Samoa on the subject, in which he said: "Nothing is more quickly learned (than the opium habit); it passes from one to another like a song; nothing is so pernicious; it feeds upon unaccustomed races like a fire upon dry wood. And I assure your majesty no race appears less able to stand the results of this drug than that to which your majesty belongs and over so great a portion of which your majesty is called upon to rule."

Sad Sign of the Times.
A reputable New Yorker, recently returned from Chicago, says that the saddest thing he saw in that metropolis was a fine, roomy, old-fashioned house facing the lake front on Clark street. Over the broad front door in tall gold letters is the inscription, "Optimists' Club." Equally prominent is the display of placards marked "To Let"—a sad sign of the times.—Harper's Weekly.

Discipline.
"A man is of no importance at his own wedding."
"That is as it should be," answered Mr. Meekton. "The experience puts him in training for a subsequent career of unbroken insignificance."

A Nice Point.
"The anti-race track gambling crusade in New York has set me wondering if that administration can last."
"Why so?"
"Because how can a rule which is against horse races be a stable government?"—Baltimore American.

You Know Both.
There is a sort of man who is very polite to your face, but who talks about you after you are gone. There is another kind of man who grumbles about you to your face and lets you alone when you are absent. The latter sort of a man will last longer, with all his faults, than the other man, with all his politeness.—Newark News.

Shower of Sulphur.
Charolles, a small town 30 miles from Macon, in France, has recently been visited by a shower of sulphur. The roofs, gardens, fields, vineyards, rivers and ponds were covered with a yellow dust, and for some time the peasants in the fields were troubled by a sulphurous biting odor which made breathing difficult.

Marked For Death.
"Three years ago I was marked for death. A grave-digger caught me tearing my lungs to pieces. Doctors failed to help me, and I had to flee, when my husband got Dr. King's New Discovery," says Mrs. A. C. Williams, of Bac, Ky. "The first dose helped me and improvement kept on until I had gained 58 pounds in weight and my health was fully restored." This medicine holds the world's healing record for coughs and cold and lungs and throat diseases. It prevents pneumonia. Sold under guarantee at J. H. Swan's drug store.

Australian Yate Tree.
The yate tree of western Australia, growing to a height of 100 feet and a diameter of 2 1/2 to three feet, yields the strongest timber known. Late tests showed an average tensile strength of 24,000 pounds to the square inch, equal to that of cast-iron, and some specimens resisted 17 1/2 tons to the square inch, equal to the tensile strength of wrought-iron.

Stumping Pa.
Ethel—"Papa, if a lion should swallow me should I die?" Papa—"Of course, dear." Ethel—"And should I go to heaven?" Papa—"Believe such a good little girl, you certainly would." Ethel—"And would the lion have to go, too?"

Coughs that are tight, or distressing tickling coughs, get quick and certain help from Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. On this account druggists everywhere are favoring Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And it is entirely free from opium, chloroform, or any other stupefying drug. The tender leaves of a harmless lung-healing mountainous shrub give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its curative properties. These leaves have the power to calm the most distressing cough and to soothe and heal the most sensitive bronchial membrane. Mothers should, for safety's sake alone, always demand Dr. Shoop's. It can with perfect freedom be given to even the youngest babies. Test it once yourself, and see. Sold by J. H. Swan.

Bought Crusoe's Firelock.
Hulda B. White of Philadelphia has purchased the firelock used by Alexander Selkirk, Defoe's original Robinson Crusoe on the island of Juan Fernandez, at a sale in Edinburgh. The relic has an authentic pedigree, and for a long time was in the possession of Selkirk's relatives in Edinburgh, Scotland. The price paid for the gun was $160.

Something New for the Dead.
Glass headstones are the latest mortuary device sent forth to order from Inventive Pittsburg. Not only the epitaph, but also the photograph of the deceased person, will be blown into the glass, thus giving a joint indestructibility to both fame and features.

Medicine That Is Medicine.
"I have suffered a good deal with malaria and stomach complaints, but I have now found a remedy that keeps me well," and that remedy is Electric Bitters: a medicine that is medicine for stomach and liver troubles, and for rundown conditions," says W. C. Kiestler, of Halliday, Ark. Electric Bitters purify and enrich the blood, tone up the nerves, and impart vigor and energy to the weak. Your money will be refunded if it fails to hold you, 50c at J. H. Swan's drug store.

The Continent of Lemuria.
There was also supposed to be a prehistoric continent that occupied the greater portion of what is now the Indian ocean. Madagascar is said to be a remnant of it. Schaler, an Englishman, has called this continent Lemuria, after monkey-like animals said to have inhabited it.

Cigarette Figures.
A newspaper headline says that the "enormous growth of the cigarette habit is shown by figures." Quite frequently by their consumptive figures.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

The old fashioned way of dosing a weak stomach, or stimulating the heart, or kidneys is all wrong. Dr. Shoop first pointed out this error. This is why his prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed entirely to the cause of these ailments—the weak inside or controlling nerves. It isn't so difficult, says Dr. Shoop, to strengthen a weak stomach, heart, or kidneys, if one goes at it correctly. Each inside organ has its controlling or inside nerve. When these nerves fail, then these inside organs must surely falter. These vital truths are leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Test it a few days and see. Improvement will promptly and surely follow. Sold by J. H. Swan.

GATHER UP THE STOPWATCHES.

Device of Racing Judges to Prevent Too Accurate Timing.

"There's tricks in every old game," trilled remarked John G. Fisher, county commissioner and horseman, the other day.

"Down at Rockport track they used to have a great system of preventing a fast horse from getting a low mark too early in its career. Whenever a heat is about to be raced and it is desired to let a horse step a fast mile without giving him a correspondingly fast mark the ones on the inside set to work to get a corner on all the stopwatches about the track. Those stable boys know every man that owns a stopwatch, just the same as they know every man who owns a rapid horse. The boys are sent to the owners of watches to borrow them, one by one.

"Then after the heat is over there's nobody to dispute the time. Those on the inside merely give the time as about ten seconds or so slower than it really was, and that's the end of it. But they're always particular to have an absolute corner on the watches."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

LONG WARS DUE TO WHISKERS.

Trivial Incident Led to Three Hundred Years of Fighting.

For ages beads were the delight of ancient beauties. The sight of a shaved chin excited sentiments of horror and aversion. To obey the injunctions of his bishops, Louis VII, of France cropped his hair a la pampin; and shaved off his luxuriant whiskers. Eleanor of Aquitaine, his consort, found him with this uncommon appearance very ridiculous and very contemptible. She revenged herself by becoming something more than a coquette. The king obtained a divorce. She then married the count of Anjou, who shortly afterward ascended the French throne, and gave him as her marriage dower the rich provinces of Poitou and Guienne, and this was the origin of those wars which for 300 years ravaged France and which cost the French nation 3,000,000 men. All of which, probably, had never taken place if Louis VII. had not been so rash as to shave off his whiskers, by which he made himself so disgusting to the fair Eleanor.

Holly Berries as Medicine.

"The holly berry has a value other than adding in making the Christmas decorations beautiful," said Lawrence Beech of Cullman, Ala., at the Tulane. "If one will take holly berries when they have ripened thoroughly and stew them for about two hours the finest medicine on earth can be had for burns and chaps and skin diseases. The juice of the holly berry has been used in my family for years with greatest success. When my mother was living she used to get a lot of holly berries every winter and stew them. She would take the fluid and put it up in jars. When one of us children got burned right badly, and chapped lips from going out in the cold too much, or had any kind of skin irritation, mother would always get down a jar of holly berry and doctor us. And when I get a home and have children I shall have save the year round."—Nashville Tennessean.

South American Inns.

A traveler who recently returned to Philadelphia was narrating some of his experiences in South America at a banquet of globe trotters. He had skirted the entire coast of South America and had found the inns or hotels in most sections very poor. So had were they in Peru, he said, that one American who had been thrown into jail pending some dispute over his papers and after his release had sought the hotel of the town, returned the next day to the jail and begged that he might be taken in.

The most curious sign he had seen was in the window of a restaurant in Buenos Ayres, which read: "American cafe—champagne and fried potatoes."—Philadelphia Record.

Oriental Wisdom.

We bow to the gods; but even they are under the sway of tremendous fate. Then should we reverence fate; but even fate can give the reward only for this or that special work. Since the reward depends on the work, of what use to us are gods and fate? Honor them to works, over which not fate itself has power!

Many know the faults of others, a few their excellences; it hath not yet appeared that any man hath known his own faults.—Sunday Magazine.

Could't Keep Track of Them.

Martin Littleton is one of a family of 19 children, so they say, born to a heritage of poverty and pluck. When he was a small lad down in Texas he fell into the creek one day and Michael, the next youngest brother, ran whinpering to Littleton, the elder: "Dad! Dad! Martin is drowning!" "Martin! Martin!" repeated the father of 19. Then he turned dubiously to his wife.

"Nora," he inquired anxiously, "have we a Martin?"—Denver News.

Met Their Fate.

As the echo of the clanging bell died away, the man in somber garb arose to his feet.

"Are you ready?" he asked. "I am," answered his companion in a firm tone, as he, too, stood up. "Then come. The worst will soon be over."

Closing the door behind them, they descended the stairs and entered the dining room of their boarding house.

RULERS WHO CARRY FIREARMS.

European Crowned Heads No Easy Marks for Assassins.

During the visit to Biarritz of King Edward a local reporter discovered to a certainty that the monarch carried a revolver, says the New York Times. A very pretty gold and ivory affair, but a six-shooter just the same. This caused further inquiry, resulting to the discovery that most living monarchs carry revolvers. Indeed, Edward carried one before he became king. It is recalled that at one time when his horse fell, receiving a mortal wound, the then prince of Wales drew a revolver and put the animal out of his agony.

On the body of the late King Carlos of Portugal a loaded revolver was found, but the crown prince, after being shot, had strength enough to draw his pistol and wound one of the assassins.

The German emperor's revolver is daily inspected by his gun charger and freshly loaded. His majesty also has a revolver lying on a small table nearest his bed.

In the bedroom of the murdered King Alexander of Servia a small arsenal was found when the conspirators entered through the door shattered by dynamite. If Alexander had not lost his head he might have put up a good fight.

A TINY BRITISH CANNON BALL.

New Hampshire Man Has Memento He Prizes Highly.

Frank M. Everett of Penacook, N. H., has a cannon ball which was fired from one of the British war vessels in the Mystic river at the American redoubt on Bunker (or more probably Breed's) hill at the outbreak of the revolutionary war. It is in good condition, and is highly prized by the Everett family, who regard it as a sort of heirloom.

The authenticity of the cannon ball is vouched for by the carefully kept record which Mr. Everett has. According to this document the missile was discovered by Col. James S. Savage while excavations were in progress for the foundation of the Bunker hill monument. Mr. Everett's great-grandfather, who achieved a notable record in the battles of colonial days, secured the cannon ball after its finding by Col. Savage, and it has been in the Everett family ever since, coming into the possession of the present owner on the death of his father, several years ago.

It tips the scales at a little over four pounds.

Return to Old Conditions.

By reconstructing the old domestic hand loom for use with power a weaver near Chemnitz has opened the way for a considerable return to textile manufacture in the home, not only in Saxony, but in other localities where electricity provides cheap power on a small scale. The new loom is built almost entirely of wood. It requires a space of 10½ feet in length, seven feet in width and 7½ feet in height, weighs 4,500 pounds and one-half horsepower is sufficient to run it. The Jacquard apparatus has been ingeniously applied so as to make unnecessary the ordinary heavy lifting box. This household machine is very quiet in operation, sells at $50, or about one-fourth the price of an iron mechanical loom, and the cost of weaving in the early experiments has been less than half of that with the factory loom. It is to be adapted soon for weaving manifold thread instead of the single thread of the first model.

Arab Marksmanship.

Regarding the war in Morocco, the last stages of which wrought havoc among the French troops, a French journal recalls a remark once made by the French general, Canrobert, in describing the taking of Zaatcha in the Arabian campaign.

"All around me," said the famous general, "the staff officers were being killed like flies. I alone remained untouched. Why? For a very simple reason. As usual, I was wearing full dress uniform, with all my decorations and medals glistening in the sun. Consequently the Arabs aimed at me personally."

The times have changed since then, and the Moroccans are better marksmen, as the French troops found to their cost.

Massage an Ancient Remedy.

Massage, as a remedy for insomnia and other ills, is most ancient. The very word "massage" comes from the Arabic word "masas." It was stolen from the Arabian doctors. In the "Odyssey" the heroes are massaged after a battle. The word "shampoo" is from the Indian word "ishampua." Massage was employed in India by Alexander the Great. Massage is one of the things they discovered in ancient China. Capt. Cook was massaged for a quarter of an hour by 12 natives of Tahiti. They cured his rheumatism. Paracelsus tells how the Egyptians practiced massage.

Literally.

A southern pulpit orator one Sunday morning was describing the experience of the prodigal son. In his endeavor to impress his hearers with the shame and remorse that this young man felt and his desire to cast away his wicked doings he spoke thus:

"Dis' young man got to thinking about his meanness and his misery, and he tuk off his coat and frowed it away; and den he tuk off his vest and frowed dat away; and den he tuk off his shirt and frowed dat away, too, and den he come to himself."

Cato's Refrain.

It was Cato who always ended every speech he made in the Roman senate with the words, "Delenda est Carthago." "Carthage must be destroyed." It made no difference what subject he was discussing, Cato always used this warning, insisting that the safety of the Roman empire depended on the destruction of its rival across the Mediterranean.

As the Playwright Sees It.

"If there was any justice about it, which there isn't," said the playwright, "the name of the playwright would be on the billboards three feet tall, the name of the star next, the name of the manager last. As it is, the manager comes first, the star next, the name of the man who prints the billboard next and the playwright last in point of size."

Tyranny of the Servile.

It is the nature of some minds to insult and tyrannize over little people, this being the means they use to recompense themselves for their extreme servility and condescension to their superiors—slaves and flatterers exact the same taxes on all below them which they pay to all above them.—Henry Fielding.

Good Reason.

Mr. Mildew (the undertaker)—Ah, it give me a awful turn. 'Earry, when I went into the barn an' saw poor old Swilks hangin' there, I turned and ran for the police like lightning.

Henry—But didn't you cut him down first?

Mr. M.—Course I didn't.

Henry—Why not?

Mr. M.—Cos he war'n't dead.

Native Dance in Fiji.

A very curious and exceedingly clever dance may be witnessed in Fiji, called by the natives "the sugar-cane moko," or sugar-cane dance. It represents the growth of the sugar cane.

All Cater to Foreign Trade.

Owners of even the smallest toy manufacturing establishments in the Nuremberg district, Germany, enter for the foreign trade. Factories employing from six to twenty people are no exception.

WHO BURNED CITY OF MOSCOW?

Confession of the incendiary as Sequel to a Story of Love and Hate.

Historians of Napoleon's invasion of Russia have for more than a century been trying to discover whose hand it was which applied the torch to Moscow or gave the order for the conflagration, which precipitated the French emperor's retreat, says the Washington Post. At the time Count Theodore Rostopchine was said to have been the incendiary. In 1823, however, he published a pamphlet, "The Truth Concerning the Great Fire of Moscow," in which the blame was laid at the door of French soldiers made mad with vodka. Now, however, the granddaughter of the governor-general, Countess Lydie Rostopchine, in a biography of her grandfather, substantiates the original charge against him—namely, says his denial was due to influence exerted over him by his beautiful wife.

Just before the city was taken he had sent her to a distant province for safety and on the evacuation by the French he had implored her to come back to a husband who worships you and who respects you beyond all others." At the time the count was 47, and the countess 35. In his letters to her he had frankly admitted that he had given orders to fire the city. When he was accused of the deed by the French officers she implored him to deny the accusation. The secret might have been buried with him but for a subsequent discovery that his wife had repudiated the orthodox religion and had become a Roman Catholic. He became embittered and morose under the shock, cut her off in his will and left a sealed package containing the truth about the Moscow fire only to be opened and made public a century after the date of his marriage. This duty has fallen to Countess Lydie Rostopchine to carry out.

Among the Fats.

Benjamin Franklin, ablest philosopher of them all, was much inclined to increase of girth in his later years, yet he could not be called obese. He was constantly giving advice on the subject of regimen and throwing in, as chronos, Baconian wisdom. Yet he was not a lover of bacon, and seldom ate ham.—New York Press.

Dressing the Chicken.

One evening on the farm a little slum child was enjoying the first glimpse of pastoral life. On a little stool he sat, under a tree, bent with its load of ripe peaches, beside the cook, who was plucking a chicken. He watched that plucking operation gravely for some time. Then he said: "Do you take off their clothes every night, lady?"

Compounding Aluminum.

Aluminum is now compounded with magnesium to form magnalium, a new alloy, which is almost unaffected by damp air, water, gaseous ammonia, carbonic acid and most organic acids. It can be cast in the liquid conditions, like pure aluminum, and the castings can be machined, acquiring a smooth, mirror-like surface.

He Knew His Mamma.

Neighbor—Bertie, your mother is calling you.

Bertie—Yes'm, I know it, but I fancy she don't want me very badly.

Neighbor—But she has called you seven times already.

Bertie—Yes, I know, but she hasn't called "Albert" yet.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Reads Like a Fairy Tale.

An Atchison girl had always heard of the impoliteness of women in falling to thank men for giving up a seat in the street car, and decided that she would be an exception. A man gave her a seat Saturday night in a crowded car, offering her the opportunity for which she had been looking. "Oh, thank you a thousand times," she said. "It is just what I wanted, and how did you ever guess it? It is so thoughtful of you, and I do appreciate it so much." Then, as she sank into the seat: "And such a comfortable seat! It is the most comfortable seat I ever sat in! Oh, thank you again so much!" —Atchison Globe.

SYNOPSIS.

The Escapade opens, not in the romance precedes the marriage of Ellen Bloom, a Puritanical, and Lord Carrington, but in their life after settling in England. The scene is placed, just following the revolution in Carrington castle in England. The Carringtons, after a house party, engaged in a family tilt, caused by jealousy. Lady Carrington agreed to cut cards with Lord Stratgate, whose attentions to Ellen had become a sore point with Carrington. The loss of $100,000 failed to perturb her, and her husband then cut for his wife's I. O. U. and his honor, Carrington winning. Additional attentions of Lord Carrington to Lady Cecily and Lord Stratgate to Lady Carrington compelled the latter to vow that she would leave the castle. Preparing to flee, Lady Carrington and her elum Deborah, an American girl, met Lord Stratgate at two a. m., he agreeing to see them to the coast. He attempted to take her to his castle, but she left him alone in the road when the carriage met with an accident. Sir and Debbie then struck out for Portsmouth, where she intended to sail for America. Hearing news of Ellen's flight, Lord Carrington and Seton set out in pursuit. Seton rented a fast vessel and started in pursuit. Stratgate, bleeding from a fall, fished on to Portsmouth, which Carrington, Ellen and Seton were also headed by different routes. Stratgate arrived in Portsmouth in advance of the others, finding that Ellen's ship had sailed before her. Stratgate and Carrington each hired a small yacht to pursue the wrong vessel, upon which each supposed Ellen had sailed. Seton overtook the fugitives near Portsmouth, but his craft ran aground, just as capture was imminent. Ellen won the chase by boarding American vessel and telling her paraders—Stratgate, Seton and Carrington.

"Gentlemen," continued Haight, who was not without a certain decision of character, "I swear to God there ain't goin' to be no fightin' on this boat. I don't know the rights and wrongs of this quarrel, but this boat's mine and I won't have it. You'll oblige me, Lord Carrington, by givin' me that pistol. And you, sir," turning to Stratgate, "will do the like. When you get ashore I've naught to say about your actions, but here—"

He held out his hand imperiously for Lord Carrington's pistol and mentioned Cooper to take that of Lord Stratgate.

The boat had shot up into the wind and lay idly rocking, practically drifting. Cooper's cutter had been shaken off and was a floating wreck some distance away. Cooper had a distinct interest in the quarrel, for he muttered:

"You're right, Haight, there can't be no shootin' here. Yonder gentleman might get a bullet in his nards and then who'd pay me for my sunken boat?"

Stratgate interrupted with a laugh, one of those irritating laughs that drove Carrington nearly frantic:

"Did you arrange all this with the captain of your boat, Carrington?" queried Stratgate. "Is this a bit of bravado, with the appearance of this worthy sailor at the proper moment?"

"Curse you!" cried Carrington, leaping up to windward. "Come up to windward with you."

He leveled his pistol full at Stratgate, having sprung clear of the huddle of men who happened to be to leeward. Stratgate had followed his movements and two shots rang out simultaneously. Quick as had been the rush of the two men, however, the sailors had followed suit. Haight threw himself upon Carrington and bore him back against the low rail, nearly throwing him overboard, while Cooper struck Stratgate's arm such a violent blow as he pulled the trigger that his pistol was hurled backwards and fell into the sea.

Haight was the first to recover himself.

"Gentlemen," he said in tones that indicated he had come to a final decision, "you've had it out now and there's got to be no more of it. Unless you give me your word," he said, turning to Stratgate, "and you give me yours, Lord Carrington, to abide peacefully in the boat until we get ashore, so help me God! I'll lash you down to a rag bolt with a rope, and—"

"There's naught for it," returned Carrington whose pistol, knocked from his hand, had been taken possession of by one of the men, "but to give you the promise, for you have my pistol, the other has gone overboard and while I have a sword Lord Stratgate is without a weapon."

"Oh, you have my word, too," said Stratgate carelessly.

"He'll keep the forward end of the boat and you'll stay aft, my lord," said Haight to Carrington, "and now we'll put back to harbor."

My lord Stratgate amused himself during the hours that elapsed before he and Carrington were landed at the same wharf whence they had taken their departure, by humming graceful little tunes, whistling merry little airs and in general deporting himself as if he were having a delightful time. My lord Carrington, who had more at stake, was gloomy and silent. He did not cast a glance in the direction of his brother earl reclining on the dock forward until the vessel was made fast to the wharf. Then he sprang out and touched Stratgate on the shoulder.

"We have matters of moment to settle, my lord," began Carrington gravely, "and it were better that we settle them quietly as gentlemen, which one of us at least is."

"I agree with you in that proposition," returned Stratgate bowing. "We shall doubtless find friends in Portsmouth and may conclude our arrangements without the unseemly interruptions of brawling seamen."

"Brawling seamen!" growled Haight under his breath. "The only peaceable people aboard the cutter were Cooper and myself and the men."

"I am staying at the Blue Boar," said Stratgate gravely.

"I also," returned Carrington.

"Very well, I shall await a visit from your friends as soon as may be convenient."

"There are men on the ships yonder," said Carrington gravely, "brother officers of mine. One of them will call upon you forthwith."

Stratgate bowed but made no other reply as he walked away toward the inn.

Carrington stayed a moment or two longer to complete arrangements for paying for the boat he had destroyed and then with a heavy heart, turned toward the town. He was in a terrible state. He had had no sleep the night before. He had ridden both day and night. The chase of the morning had not conducted to quiet his nerves, and the insults of Stratgate, whom a punctilio kept him from picking up in his arms and breaking as he would a stick, had not rendered him any more easy. His first duty was to get something to eat and to refresh himself by a bath. He would then send a message to some of his shipmates in Admiral Kephart's fleet who could be counted upon to attend to all the arrangements of the meeting at the entrance between him and his enemy.

Although Carrington was as angry as a man could well be and as full of blister hatred toward Stratgate, he did not intend to throw his life away on that account. He had other things to do, one of which was to chase Ellen wherever she went and find out the truth. He did not believe Stratgate's extravagant assertions about the earl's arrangement to meet Lady Ellen on the ship, but there was a possibility of truth in it and that at least kept him from entire confidence in his wife.

As for Stratgate, he was not feeling any too happy either. He had risked everything, got himself embroiled with a man of Carrington's determined character, had upon him all the odium of having run away with another man's wife, and yet he had lost the wife!

His sensuous admiration of Lady Ellen was turned to something like hate. He did not want to throw away any points in the game either, and he made up his mind to kill Carrington, if it was in his power, and to wreak such vengeance upon Lady Ellen as would cause her to remember to the very last hour of her life the time in which she flouted him.

CHAPTER XIV.

Admiral Kephart Joins the Pursuit.

We left Sir Charles Seton hard and fast in his boat on the shoal. Sir Charles had nothing to do but study the ocean and observe that which transpired upon it, for a few moments of hard work convulsed worthy Master Whitley that only the rising tide would float his vessel. Sir Charles saw the whole drama enacted before him. He saw Ellen run down the Flying Star; he saw that vessel's way checked; he could see Deborah followed by Ellen clamber aboard. He marked the other two boats chasing down the channel and made a shrewd guess that one carried Carrington and the other Stratgate. He saw the collision, although of course he was too far away to know who was responsible or what was happening. He even saw the smoke from the two pistols which were discharged by the belligerents on the boat and after a time detected the report fatally, but other than that he knew nothing.

It was some time before the rising tide coupled with their own tremendous exertion got the boat off the shoal. Sir Charles had had plenty of time to mature his plans. He knew that Ellen was on that ship. He guessed that Carrington and Stratgate had gone back to Portsmouth, if one or the other, or both of them had not been killed in that interchange of pistol shots, and he surmised that the first duty to which they would devote themselves would be to see which one could kill the other.

He therefore determined to chase the ship. Not in his own boat, oh, no! He had a better plan than that. A roddy and resourceful man was Sir Charles Seton. And while he was deeply in love with Mistress Debbie, the more in love because through Ellen's persistence his sweetheart had been, as it were, dragged out of his arms and therefore added the value of the unattainable to his pursuit of her, yet he was not in addition blinded by passion, jealousy and hatred as were Carrington and Stratgate. He knew that Mistress Debbie despised men of the Stratgate stamp, and although everything in petticoats was fair game for Stratgate, he also knew that the earl was on this occasion bent toward Lady Ellen. Therefore, he was in a saner and brighter mood than the other two.

Not far away lay the great ships of Admiral Kephart. The admiral had announced his intention of posting down to Portsmouth by coach. The first thing he would do when he arrived would be to board his flagship which lay at the head of the line of a dozen little ships several miles away from the place where Sir Charles had taken ground. Sir Charles reasoned that the admiral would be in a hurry to get to Portsmouth and that even if he did not press the post boys, he would probably have reached his ship by the time Sir Charles could get there.

Therefore, he possessed his soul to such patience as he could until his own boat once more got under way. He had hidden Master Whitley to mark well the course of the merchantman upon which Ellen and Deborah had taken refuge. This ship headed steadily eastward and seemed to have settled down for a long voyage.

It took but a short time for Sir Charles to run alongside the Britannia. Bidding the men wait for him, he scrambled up the battens to the gangway and stepped aboard.

An officer met him at once.

"I am Sir Charles Seton," began the soldier, "captain in the Sussex Light Infantry."

"I am pleased to see you, sir," answered the officer, courteously, extending his hand. "I am Lieutenant Collier of the royal navy."

As Sir Charles shook the sailor's hand he asked:

"Is Admiral Kephart on the ship?"

"Yes, sir. He came aboard a half an hour ago and went immediately to his cabin."

"May I see him?"

"I'll send your name in, Mr. Morlake," said the officer, turning about. A smart midshipman ran across the deck and touched his cap.

"My compliments to Admiral Kephart and say to him that Captain Sir Charles Seton of the Sussex Light Infantry desires the privilege of speech with him."

"Ay, ay, sir," answered the midshipman, saluting again and scurrying aft.

"Might I ask you, Mr. Collier," said Sir Charles, "if the Britannia is ready for instant service?"

The lieutenant smiled.

"All his majesty's ships are ready for service at any time."

"Yes, yes, I know, of course," returned Seton, "but what I mean is, could this ship be got under way at once?"

"On the instant."

"And is she prepared for a cruise?"

"She could go around the world and take her departure within an hour," returned the lieutenant with a pleased sense of demonstrating the efficiency of his majesty's navy beyond peradventure. "May I ask why you wish to know?" he continued turning to Sir Charles.

COULDN'T DODGE THESE TAXES.

Births, Marriages and Deaths Once Source of English Revenue.

Pleased with his morning's work—he had sworn off no less than $340,000 in taxes—the capitalist leaned back in his chair, lighted a cigar and talked agreeably.

"In the past," he said, "governments were wiser. They levied taxes that could not be sworn off. There was, for instance, the English birth tax of the seventeenth century. A laborer paid two shillings as birth tax; a duke paid £30. You couldn't get round it. Burials were taxed, according to the station of the dead, from a shilling to £25. That, too, could not be dodged."

"Marriages were taxed. A duke, to marry, paid £50; a common person, like yourself, paid half a crown."

"In those days you paid a tax on every servant, on your dog, on every horse, on your carriage, your hearth, your windows, watches, clocks, wigs, hair powder, plate, ribbons, coats, gauze and candles."

Too Mild.

There are distinctions without differences, also differences without distinctions. A small man, noted for his economy in speaking the truth, demonstrated this fact. After a long and exasperating career of provocation, chance brought him up against a bigger individual who had the courage of his convictions, also a nice sense of discrimination in the use of language. He said things to the little man—things that made him writhe and turn purple in the face. "But the worst of it all was," whined the little man to a confident later, "he never once called me a liar—said I was nothing but a miserable little storyteller."—Success.

LAMPHERE GUILTY OF ARSON

IS SENTENCED TO PRISON FOR TWO TO 21 YEARS.

Verdict Is a Compromise—Several Jurors Held Out Long for Life Sentence for Murder.

Laporte, Ind.—Ray, Lamphere, charged with the murder of Mrs. Belle Guinness and her three children, by setting fire to the Guinness house April 28, was found guilty of arson Thursday evening by the jury which had the case since 5:30 o'clock Wednesday evening.

Within five minutes after the verdict was reported, Judge Richter had sentenced the defendant to the state penitentiary at Michigan City for an indeterminate term of from two to 21 years. He will be taken to Michigan City at once to begin his sentence.

Attorney Worden for the defense said that a motion for a new trial would be made, and should it be refused, an appeal to the Indiana supreme court would follow. The Indiana supreme court is two years behind in its work and so this case could not be reached until after Lamphere had served the minimum time of his sentence.

The verdict was something of a compromise. Several members of the jury, it is understood, held out long for murder in the first degree with a life sentence. So far as could be learned, none was for hanging.

Lamphere Thursday night said that he was confident the dead body in the fire was Mrs. Guinness' regardless of what other people may think. He reiterated his innocence of setting fire to the house, though admitting that he was on the road and saw the fire that night. He also declared that he did not see Mrs. Guinness kill Helgelein.

"I have no complaint to make about the verdict. Things looked pretty blue, but the verdict might have been worse."

ACTRESS ATTEMPTS SUICIDE.

Mrs. Eleanor Cowper Shoots Herself in New York Hotel.

New York.—Mrs. Eleanor Merrell Cowper, a widely-known playwright and actress, shot herself in her room at the St. Regis hotel Friday and will probably die. She was a protegee and business partner of the late James H. Wallick, manager and actor, who killed himself at his home in Middletown, N. Y.

Before shooting herself, Mrs. Cowper wrote letters to her lawyer, Judge Herbert B. Royce of Middletown, and to John Hood, manager of the King Edward hotel in West Forty-seventh street, where she formerly lived, advising them of her intention to kill herself. A brief history of her life, largely devoted to recounting her career on the stage, was found in her effects.

Boat Sinks; Hundred Drown.

Manila.—The coasting steamer Ponting, carrying a large number of laborers from Narayan to the rice fields in Pangasinan province, struck a rock and sank Friday night during a storm, off the town of San Fernando in Union Province. It is estimated that a hundred of the passengers and crew of the Ponting were drowned. The steamer Vigcay rescued 55.

Kills Brother and Mother.

New York.—With him so deadly that all five shots he fired took effect, William Kallebrun of Jersey City Friday night shot and killed his brother Leo and then his aged mother, Mrs. Victoria Kallebrun. The tragedy took place in the apartments of Mrs. Kallebrun in New York. Kallebrun had come from Jersey City with a friend, Albert Troguay, to secure money from his brother Leo, and the shooting resulted from fact that Leo would not give his brother money. Kallebrun was arrested soon after the murder.

Three Hunters Probably Drowned.

Thessalon, Ont.—William Menor, D. Menor, his son, and Fred Eno failed to return from a hunting trip when expected. Friday a searching party found the wreck of their rowboat. It is believed the boat capsized in the rapids and that all three were drowned.

South Dakota's Gold Output.

Pierre, S. D.—The report of the state mine inspector, filed with the governor, shows South Dakota's gold production for last year to have been the highest in the history of the state—$7,460,000. The mica output for the year is valued at $85,000.

Indian Bureau Official Resigns.

Washington.—Maj. Charles F. Larrabee, assistant commissioner of Indian affairs, and for 28 years connected with the Indian service, has resigned, to take effect November 30.

CENSUS TO COST $12,930,000.

Director North Proud of Small Increase Over 1900.

Washington.—The cost of taking the next census, as estimated by Director North in his annual report just issued, will be $12,930,000.

The director points with pride to the fact that this sum is but $10,000 more than the cost of the census of 1900, and says that this will be accomplished "in spite of the enormous growth in the population during the last decade, a growth largely contributed by foreign-born people who do not speak English, a class which it is very expensive and very difficult to enumerate. If the work can be done for this sum it will be the first time in the history of the nation that a census has been taken and completed at practically the same cost as the prior enumeration."

The increase, he says, heretofore from decade to decade has been about 50 per cent. The enormous saving, says the director, will be effected by reason of the existence of the permanent census bureau and the installation of the bureau's own tabulating machines, which, he states, will do the work faster and more efficiently than the machines which were rented.

THREE THOUSAND HOMELESS.

Great Flood Works Havoc in West Guthrie, Okla.

Guthrie, Okla.—As the result of a 48-hour downpour in the valley of the Cottonwood river and its tributaries, the Cottonwood overflowed here Sunday afternoon. Several hundred homes are partially under water in West Guthrie and 3,000 people are homeless.

The river Sunday night was one foot higher than ever before in its history, and rising 12 inches an hour. Hundreds of people who refused to get out of the flooded district, believing that the river would not rise as rapidly as it did, fired shots of distress before sunset and many boats with an array of rescuers brought the tardy ones to places of safety.

Street car service is completely at a standstill. The city's water plant is under water. Five thousand dollars' worth of cotton belonging to the Farmers' Oil mill was washed away down stream and 2,000 bales are still in the water. The Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe roundhouse and shops are inundated. All railroad trains in and out of Guthrie have been annihilated.

Detained Chinese Escape.

San Francisco.—Twenty-one out of 116 Chinese held at the Pacific Mail dock pending the decision of the immigration officers as to whether or not they were entitled to enter the United States, escaped from the detention shed at Second and Brannan streets about 12 o'clock Saturday night. Four of them were recaptured in Chinatown Sunday and returned to the shed. Immigration officials, the local police and the officers of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company are prosecuting a vigorous search for the others.

JUST DOUBLE

320 ACRES INSTEAD OF 160 ACRES

As further inducement to settlement of the wheat-raising lands of western Canada, the Canadian Government has increased the area that may be taken by a homesteader to 320 acres—160 free and 160 to be purchased at $3.00 per acre. These lands are in the grain-raising area, where mixed farming is also carried on with 'unqualified success. A railway will shortly be built to Hudson Bay, bringing the world's markets a thousand miles nearer these wheat-fields, where schools and churches are convenient, climate excellent, railways close to all settlements, and local markets good.

"It would take time to assimilate the revelations that a visit to the great west brings to the North of us unfolded at every turn."

138 DEAD IN MINE

HORRIBLE RESULTS OF EXPLOSION AT MARIANNA, PA.

SECOND BLAST IS FEARED

Fifty-Six Bodies Are Recovered, But Work of Finding Victims Is Slow, Owing to Gases and Debris.

Marianna, Pa., Nov. 30.—Fifty-six bodies, all but two of them horribly mangled, were taken from the mine of the Pittsburg-Buffalo Coal Company here, in which an explosion occurred Saturday, killing many men and casting into gloom what was until then considered the model mining town of the world.

There is no doubt that the death list will reach 138 men. Officials of the company, who had stated that not over 125 men had been killed, Sunday night admitted that 138 men went down the shaft to work Saturday morning. According to miners and others familiar with the number of men generally employed in the mine, the death list will exceed the company's estimate by at least 50.

Exact Number Is Not Known. As in nearly all mine disasters, there seems no way at present of knowing how many men went to work. The number check-off system has again proven defective and from no source can an accurate statement as to the fatalities be secured.

It is possible that the exact number of men killed will never be known. Up to darkness Sunday night 25 bodies had been brought to the surface in an iron bucket. Arms, legs or heads were missing from some and the trunks of others were burned, bruised and cut.

Two Were Suffocated.

Two of the men taken from the mine had been suffocated and their bodies were not even scratched. One of these was John Ivill, a cousin of John H. Jones, president of the Pittsburg-Buffalo Coal Company, owners of the mine, who was employed as head time-keeper. Ivill's body was found beneath a coal-digging machine and it was apparent that the young man had crawled there in a vain effort to escape the deadly fumes.

The body of the other man was found near Ivill. The unfortunate had placed his face in a pool of water, which all miners are advised to do when an explosion occurs, in a desperate attempt to fight off suffocation until rescued.

The opinion was expressed by a number of expert miners that the mine will not be cleared of victims for several days.

Danger of Second Explosion.

Reports have been in circulation that a second and more terrible explosion is likely to occur at any moment. The company officials assert this is not true. There is considerable gas in the mine, however, and there is undoubtedly danger of a second explosion.

Many relatives of the victims stood all day close to the ropes around the shaft, but there were few of the harrowing scenes usually associated with a mine explosion. Most of the relatives are English-speaking people, who bear their grief in silence. It is estimated that one-fourth of the victims are Americans. As rapidly as possible the work of rescue is being carried on. At short intervals new men are sent into the mine to relieve others searching for the dead. Owing to the dangerous gases and the mass of wreckage in the mine, the rescue work is slow and is being carried on with great precaution. Experts from Pennsylvania and West Virginia are in charge of the work of exploration and are being materially assisted by J. W. Paul and Clarence Hall of the United States experimental and testing station in Pittsburgh.

GETS FIRST CABINET PLACE

HITCHCOCK TO BE POSTMASTER GENERAL UNDER TAFT.

Republican National Chairman Selected Because of His Ability to Advise President-Elect.

Hot Springs, Va.—Frank H. Hitchcock has been offered and has accepted the position of postmaster general in the Taft cabinet that is to be.

The official announcement of this conclusion regarding the first cabinet selection of President-elect Taft doubtless will not be made until Mr. Taft has completed his cabinet, at which time it will be announced on bloc. Because of this view of the situation no expression regarding the selection of Mr. Hitchcock was obtainable for publication from either Mr. Taft or the Republican national chairman. There were many reasons, it was pointed out, why it was expedient that Mr. Hitchcock's status should be fixed, at least so far as the principals are concerned, and a complete understanding is known to exist between them. As chairman of the Republican national committee, Mr. Hitchcock became more familiar than any other person with the political phase of questions likely to arise at the beginning of the Taft administration and the knowledge he gained regarding the personnel of the party will be of great service to Mr. Taft throughout his administration.

Besides these reasons the national chairman admittedly possesses a comprehensive as well as a technical knowledge of postal affairs, gained by a protracted experience as first assistant and acting postmaster general. Mr. Hitchcock, accompanied by Charles H. Boynton of New York, left here Friday night for Washington, where Saturday night he was the guest of honor at a dinner given by the executive and advisory committee of the national committee. He then will visit headquarters in New York. It is altogether probable that from this time on Mr. Hitchcock will be frequently in conference with Judge Taft.

STEAMER RAMMED AND SUNK.

Disaster in Fog Off Sandy Hook Costs Four Lives.

New York.—In the thick of a fog off Sandy Hook Thursday the stout steel freighter George of the Whittier Star Line rammed and sank the lightly-laden Panama line steamer Finance, outward bound, with 80 passengers. The Finance went down within ten minutes after the collision, carrying to their death three of her passengers and one of the crew.

The rest of the passengers, who included 19 women and 14 children, as well as others of the crew, were rescued by the boats of the George. The freighter was not damaged.

Of the passengers lost, one was a woman, Miss Irene Campbell of Panama, who clung frantically to the rail of the sinking vessel and could not be persuaded to release her hold, nor were the men who manned the small boats able forcibly to remove her.

12 WEDDINGS, ONE DIVORCE.

Startling Statistics on Legal Separations in United States.

Washington.—Higher divorce rate in the United States than in any of the foreign countries whose statistics are available, is announced by the census bureau, which in a bulletin just issued, says that at least one marriage in twelve in this country ultimately terminates in divorce.

The report covers the 20 years from 1887 to 1906, inclusive. From 1887 to 1906 there were 12,832,044 marriages and 945,625 divorces, against 328,716 divorces for the preceding 20 years. Divorce is now 2½ times as common, compared with the married population, as it was 40 years ago. Utah and Connecticut are the only two states showing decreased divorce rate. Desertion caused 38.9 of the total divorces in the 20 years.

BREAKS A COLD PROMPTLY

The following formula is a never failing remedy for colds:

One ounce of Compound Syrup of Sarsaparilla, one ounce Toris Compound and one-half pint of good whiskey, mix and shake thoroughly each time and use in doses of a tablespoonful every four hours.

This if followed up will cure an acute cold in 24 hours. The ingredients can be gotten at any drug store.

BAD ITCHING HUMOR.

Limbs Below the Knees Were Raw—Feet Swollen—Sleep Broken—Cured in 2 Days by Cuticura.

"Some two months ago I had a humor break out on my limbs below my knees. They came to look like raw beefsteak, all red, and no one knows how they itched and burned. They were so swollen that I could not get my shoes on for a week or more. I used five or six different remedies and got no help, only when applying them the burning was worse and the itching less. For two or three weeks the suffering was intense and during that time I did not sleep an hour at a time. Then one morning I tried a bit of Cuticura. From the moment it touched me the itching was gone and I have not felt a bit of it since. The swelling went down and in two days I had my shoes on and was about as usual. George B. TWO GOOD STORIES BY BARRIE.

One Told by Successful Author Is Decidedly Against Himself.

Mr. J. W. Barrie, the author of "What Every Woman Knows," tells a good story against himself.

A lady of his acquaintance had taken a friend to see one of his plays, and, quite astonished, he asked her why she did so.

"Oh," was the reply, "it's such a quiet street for the horses!"

He also tells of a playgoer who received no response to his repeated requests to a lady in front of him to remove her huge hat.

At length, exasperated, he said: "If you won't take off your hat, my dear madam, will you be so kind as to fold back your ears?"—Woman's Life.

When Disease Will Disappear.

At the reopening of a medical school in London recently Sir John Brograve, in an address to the students, said that he looked forward "to some Utopian era when such diseases as influenza, pneumonia, measles, scarlet fever and the like will become more or less extinct as a result of proper ventilation of offices, shops, public buildings and private houses, and other sanitary measures, such as the avoidance of overcrowding, the abolition of children's parties and the habit of indiscriminate kissing. The last should not be a hardship," Sir John added, "if we accept the schoolboy's definition of a kiss: 'It is just putting your mouth to a person's cheek and drawing in your breath, so as to make a little noise, which is not bad, but it does nothing in the way of helping you to love the person.'"

Glow of Health Speaks for Postum.

It requires no scientific training to discover whether coffee disagrees or not.

Simply stop it for a time and use Postum in place of it, then note the beneficial effects. The truth will appear.

"Six years ago I was in a very bad condition," writes a Tenn. lady, "I suffered from indigestion, nervousness and insomnia."

"I was then an inveterate coffee drinker, but it was long before I could be persuaded that it was coffee that hurt me. Finally I decided to leave it off a few days and find out the truth."

"The first morning I left off coffee I had a raging headache, so I decided I must have something to take the place of coffee." (The headache was caused by the reaction of the coffee drug—caffein.)

"Having heard of Postum through a friend who used it, I bought a package and tried it. I did not like it at first but after I learned how to make it right, according to directions on pkg., I would not change back to coffee for anything."

"When I began to use Postum I weighed only 117 lbs. Now I weigh 170 and as I have not taken any tonic in that time I can only attribute my recovery of good health to the use of Postum in place of coffee."

"My husband says I am a living advertisement for Postum. I am glad to be the means of inducing my many friends to use Postum, too."
